Description :

PDF-9b393 | This study explores the phenomenon of the mass movement of people away from town and city centres to live in new estates and towns built since World War II. Much of this migration was encouraged by housing policies, and was undertaken willingly. The aspirations and experiences of the many people who moved to the suburbs and new towns are considered central to an understanding of post-war society. ... Invincible Green Suburbs, Brave New Towns: Social Change and Urban Dispersal in Post-War England
